ONLINE PAYMENTS FOR PARKING TICKETS COMING TO CAROLINA BEACH

CAROLINA BEACH, NC---Soon, paying for parking tickets will only be a few mouse clicks away for people who receive parking violations in Carolina Beach.

The Town of Carolina Beach has asked its parking contractor, Central Parking System, to implement an online parking payment system. CPS uses a firm called Clancy Systems International to set up the online credit card payment program. This remittance service allows and encourages parking violators to pay their citations in a prompt manner by using their credit cards. The service is currently in place and available to the public.

A person wishing to use the remit-online program logs onto the website using the web address printed on their citation. At the prompt, the customer enters the citation number and the amount of the fine. When a payment is submitted, an e-mail is automatically sent to Central Parking to notify them about the time and amount paid.

This service is offered at no cost to the Town of Carolina Beach or Central Parking. The customer is required to pay a two-dollar processing fee for each transaction. This service is already successfully used in other Central Parking System locations.
